About the Book

Inspired by the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe's fight against the Dakota Access Pipeline, To Be Water Protector is a powerful and moving picture book that tells the story of a young girl who stands up to protect her people and the land she loves.

With lyrical prose by Carole Lindstrom and stunning illustrations by Michaela Goade, To Be Water Protector is a timely and important reminder of the importance of protecting our planet and our water.

The Story

The story follows a young girl named Winona as she witnesses the destruction of her people's land by the Dakota Access Pipeline. Winona is determined to fight back, and she gathers her friends and family to form a water protector movement.

Together, they stand up to the pipeline company and demand that they stop construction. Winona's story is a powerful reminder that even the smallest voices can make a difference.

The Impact

To Be Water Protector has been praised by critics and readers alike for its powerful message and stunning illustrations. The book has won numerous awards, including the Caldecott Medal and the Newbery Medal.
